SMALL CHURCH AND FAMILY

CEMETERIES

With index of Surnames

Mimeographed March 1958

5314 Belleville Ave., Baltimore 7

This booklet serves as a catch-all for the numerous small graveyards scattered over the countryside, in Frederick and bordering areas of Carroll and Howard counties. Since each separate list is too small to serve as its own index and to lighten the task of the researcher a list of surnames only is appended.

NOTE--Inadvertently the compiler typed a duplicate Page 41. This has been inserted as a41 and the index has been corrected, but several blank pages will show up in the book. Nothing has been omitted.

Since space is an important consideration many abbreviations have been used herein. The less obvious ones follow:

w or w/o--wife or wife of

 From "The Harbaugh Family" by Rev. DR. Henry Harbaugh, printed Chambersburg 1856 we learn that Elias was of small stature but active; that Henry, bro of Jacob was the first to be buried on the lot and that he died ca 1779 age 45 and that he was mentally unsound but was a prodigious hunter and rail splitter, being of giant stature
 He was buried in exceedingly deep snow dura bitter cold spellJohn of Jacob was short and lusty and lived on the old farm* While no stone is now visible, the name of Ludwig has been added on authority of Scharf who states he was buried here

 This cemetery lies on west side of Quaker Church road $\frac{1}{2}$ mile from the church. It is surrounded by a low stone wall. It seems too large for a family graveyard and there is space enough in front for a church building. I do not have at hand the proper references to give more details of this very old burying ground J M H

Sorry for meager information on this cemetery. No one home at nearest house and at another house lady knew nothing of its history or of the families buried there

EMP. This small burial place was on Kemp farm at Rocky Springs. At time of copying by Major Joseph H Holdcraft (ap 1956) the military reservation was about to engulf this farm and stones were to be moved to Mount Olivet

A hundred years or so ago there were probably 500 family cemeteries on farms in Frederick county alone. The elements and desire of farmers for unbroken furrows have taken a tremendous toll. Casual readers of these lines who may know of such graveyards unlisted here are invited to send locations, or a list of the names on the stones, to the address below. Full credit will be given to any such contributor when the names are published. Generations yet unborn will appreciate your thoughtfulness in leaving these vital records
